ABSTRACT:

Organization Description: Spaulding for Children is a nonprofit organization located in Southfield,
Michigan that has been placing children in permanent homes since 1968. Spaulding's National Resource Center has trained over 72,000 professionals, staff, and families nationwide. The Spaulding Institute for Family and Community Development works collaboratively to develop resource material and community based services that support individuals, families, corporations, agencies and communities in strengthening children and families.

Use(s) of ACF Program Grant Funds: Spaulding for Children proposes several items to continue their current Infant Adoption Awareness Training Program (IAATP) efforts. The plan includes developing training curriculum and materials that are flexible and responsive to the varying needs of healthcare staff and participants, documenting collaborative efforts, cost savings, enhancements, and reducing redundancies. Providing advanced trainings to expert trainers, as well as trainings to health center staff and professionals working with women and teens are included in the proposal. Spaulding for Children plans to continue the existing national web based registration process and national network for the exchange of information, referrals and consultation with eligible health center, national/state health care associations, colleges and universities, and Regional Training Centers.
